ON THE COVER
Ruben

Ruben recently turned 7 years old. About a year ago, Ruben's mom noticed that he had many bruises on his body. When he visited his pediatrician, he said he was fine. But his mom thought otherwise and learned from her doctor that they should have his platelets checked. His platelets were low, and the family was referred to Children's to see a blood specialist.

Ruben was diagnosed with Idiopathic Thrombocytopenic Purpura (ITP), a disorder that can lead to easy or excessive bruising and bleeding. Ruben has been coming to Children's frequently ever since. His care team continues to try different treatments to help manage his disorder, and Ruben's family appreciates their diligent efforts as well as their commitment to providing him with outstanding care.

Like many kids his age, Ruben enjoys riding his bike, playing video games and writing - his favorite thing about school.

Mission

We champion the health needs of children and families. We are committed to improving children's health by providing the highest-quality, family-centered care, advanced through research and education.

Vision

To be every family's essential partner in raising healthier children.

Four-year-old Tovin hasn't let his congenital heart condition slow him down. After his adoption from China at age three, Tovin came to Children's, where his care team laid out a plan to begin repairing his heart. He underwent his first surgery soon after his arrival in Minnesota. This past fall, he successfully completed his second surgery and was home within a few days. Tovin will need one more surgery when he is older to fully repair his heart, but in the meantime, he will stay busy being a happy, healthy and energetic boy!

Supporting tomorrows

Robert I. Bonar, Jr., Dr. H.A. and Russ Becker

At Children's Hospitals and Clinics of Minnesota, we believe in doing everything we can to support kids so they have an opportunity to grow up to fulfill their hopes, their dreams and their potential.

In 2014, our opportunity to support bright tomorrows for our patients was greater than ever, as we provided best-in-class care to an unprecedented number of children – including more than 500,000 visits to our hospitals and clinics. We are honored to serve so many in our community as we partner with families to raise healthier children.

This year we will continue to improve access and expand the presence of Children's care throughout the region. We will add two new Mother Baby Centers – one at Mercy Hospital in Coon Rapids and the other at United Hospital and Children's – St. Paul. We are growing the capabilities offered through our Neuroscience Center and Cardiovascular Care Center. We're improving access to our Pediatric Ear, Nose, Throat (ENT) and Facial Plastic Surgery program given parent demand. And we are expanding evening and weekend hours and Ready Care appointment availability at our 12 primary care clinic locations.

In this ever-changing health care landscape, none of this would be possible without your generous support of Children's mission. Together we must continue to imagine new and better ways to deliver care, improve quality and to design the care experience around the special health needs of each child and family.

Everything we do here is about the kids. With you as our partner, we're looking forward to what tomorrow brings.

Unique ways to support tomorrows

The community's outpouring of generosity in 2014 was truly awe-inspiring, not to mention record-breaking. Together, kids, families, businesses and community organizations raised more than $30.7 million in support of Children's mission – the most in our history! Whether they hosted an event, ran a race or did a service project, the creative ways our donors gave back was impressive and impactful. Here's a quick look at how our community came together in 2014 to support brighter tomorrows for kids at Children's.

Having a "hoot" doing good

After receiving care at Children's in 2011, 16-year-old Ally Doucette knew she wanted to find a way to bring an extra dose of comfort to other patients. Her Allyhoos – handmade, owl-shaped pillows – were the answer. For every online order received, two custom Allyhoos are made – one is sent to the customer and a twin Allyhoo is donated to a Children's patient. Ally and her team of four friends have created 89 pairs of Allyhoos since launching her business in March 2014. "Hearing that kids and families appreciate receiving an Allyhoo is the greatest feeling in the world," notes Ally, "it's inspiring!"

Running together for kids

What happens when you connect work to passion? Just ask Medtronic employee Beth Peterson. Beth became involved with HeartBeat 5000, a 5K walk/run that benefits Children's cardiovascular program, when her son, Miles, was diagnosed with a congenital heart defect. As Medtronic's HeartBeat 5000 team captain, Beth now leads an employee group of more than 30 people, saying, "I am passionate about rallying support for the cardiovascular program because of the incredible gift they have given my family."

Throwing it back for tomorrows

A little celebrity goes a long way in creating awareness around pediatric health care. During our Give today. Support tomorrows. year-end campaign, news anchors, athletes, TV stars, foodies and other celebrities took us back to their childhood to share their dreams for tomorrow, #ThrowBackThursday style. Through their generosity and that of thousands of others, we raised $2.25 million to support kids today who dream of becoming the news anchors, athletes, TV stars and foodies of tomorrow.

Loads of generosity

Whether riding in, climbing on, or simply watching the work of bulldozers, backhoes and other construction vehicles, big trucks equaled big fun for more than a thousand kids who attended the 2014 Day of the Dozers community fundraiser in September. Hosted by the Minnesota Utility Contractors Association (MUCA), the event raised $15,000 for Children's and brought many smiles to attendees. "Our members love the chance to share what they do with kids," commented Stephanie Menning, executive director for MUCA. "And to do so while supporting Children's makes it even better."

Affinity Plus employees invest in Children's patients

A special investment

It comes as no surprise that for employees of Affinity Plus Federal Credit Union, investments are serious business – especially when they involve kids and their families. Since 2012, the Affinity team has generously – and creatively – invested in Children's mission. Whether providing no-fee ATMs in our hospitals, assembling craft kits for hospitalized kids, volunteering at Children's State Fair exhibit or participating in our benefit events, the employees of Affinity Plus are seeing a one-of-a-kind return on their investments: brighter tomorrows for our patients.

Dr. Goldbloom's retirement

December 2014 marked the end of a remarkable era at Children's as we celebrated the retirement of CEO Alan L. Goldbloom, MD.

Taking the helm in 2003, Dr. Goldbloom's dedication to improving kids' health has been evident in his many accomplishments. During his time at Children's, he led the growth of our primary and specialty care clinic presence in the community, a $350 million renovation and expansion of our two hospital campuses, and an increase in the number of families who choose Children's for pediatric care. Additionally, Dr. Goldbloom's passionate advocacy within the community and at the state capitol served as a strong voice in making kids' health and well-being a shared responsibility.

Dr. Goldbloom has left an indelible mark through a career devoted to kids and their families facing some of life's toughest challenges. And through his leadership he has set the course for continued excellence at Children's.

Giving meaning to technology

By Laura Gandrud, MD, Staff Pediatric Endocrinologist

At Children's McNeely Pediatric Diabetes Center, we have the privilege of helping kids and their families learn how to manage their diabetes so they can live happy, healthy lives. But for some kids, successful monitoring can be a challenge.

This is especially true for adolescents. Teenagers who have diabetes may struggle to feel "normal" around peers, so they aren't as diligent about testing their blood sugar. Poor management of diabetes can have negative long-term effects.

We know it is important to talk to teens on their terms. So last year we looked at new ways that technology could help with diabetes management. Smart phones were a logical place to start.

Because of the generosity of donors who recognize the importance of investing in medical innovation, we have been able to pilot the first-ever program that equips teenage patients with a free smart phone that connects to their glucose monitor to track readings and provides reminders of when to test. Most importantly, it also provides an incentive to stick with their treatment – if they miss too many readings, their phone service is temporarily shut off.

By communicating with teens through a device that is already an integral part of their lives, we can influence better health decisions. And although we're still early on in our trial, we're already seeing improvement. Teenagers are positively changing their behaviors and taking responsibility for their health. As a physician, that is exciting to see.

Dr. Laura Gandrud meets regularly with her teenage patients, assisting them with their diabetes management.

Helping kids and families breathe easier

At Children's we like to see kids happy and healthy at home. But we know that unexpected trips to the emergency department (ED) happen, especially for asthma patients. To help parents and kids breathe a little easier, Children's is collaborating with researchers from Health Partners on an initiative aimed at helping families better manage their child's asthma treatment through text messaging. Immediately after a child leaves our ED, his or her family receives a series of text messages reminding them of next steps – when to schedule a follow-up appointment with the patient's primary physician, where to fill prescriptions and tips on how to stick with their treatment plan. With clearer communication comes better understanding and, ultimately, better outcomes for kids.

Setting a new standard

The Kiran Stordalen and Horst Rechelbacher Pediatric Pain, Palliative and Integrative Medicine Clinic isn't your typical clinic. From the warmth of the wood floors to expansive nature photography on the walls, the clinic exudes a sense of calm and comfort. And for good reason – it was designed to serve more than 1,000 kids a year who are dealing with complex pain conditions or are in the midst of a palliative care experience. The generosity of the community was key in allowing Children's internationally recognized pain, palliative and integrative medicine team to continue leading the way in this field by setting a new standard when it comes to clinic environments.

Aligning services for our littlest patients

Our littlest patients have big futures ahead of them. To help them have the best start in life, Children's is aligning our neonatology, neurology and neurosurgery programs more closely than ever before. In 2014, Children's formalized our multidisciplinary Neuro NICU program at our St. Paul campus, with the vision of providing cutting-edge care that will lead to better outcomes and quality of life for babies with difficult neurological diagnoses. Through swift diagnosis, constant monitoring and a highly specialized care team, we will be able to change the course of newborns' lives for the better – at the moment of their birth.

Coordinated care with heart

By Stacey Schumann, CV mom

I was 20 weeks pregnant when my husband and I learned that our son, Sam, had hypoplastic left heart syndrome (HLHS) – a severe heart defect. As parents, we were devastated that our child may not make it to his birth, and if he did, may not have the best life after he was born.

But Children's calmed so many of our fears. Sam's care team, including a pediatric cardiologist, perinatal physicians and nurses, surgeon, and many more have been with us since the very beginning, helping us navigate this scary diagnosis. And every time Sam has undergone an open heart surgery – five so far, each represented by a heart on his monkey – we've found great comfort in his team's extensive work with HLHS, knowing that they have been at the forefront of ways to treat this complicated condition.

By working together, our team has made our visits to Children's better than expected. They've empowered us to be part of Sam's care, and we are able to influence important decisions that have ultimately helped him feel better. I am amazed that everyone has said how grateful they are to help Sam, but I don't think they realize how amazing they are and how grateful we are for them. They have given our son his life; they have helped us be a family.

Donor-supported services like child life, music therapy and the Ronald McDonald House have helped make hospital visits special for Stacey, Sam and their family.

Knowledge is contagious

Infectious diseases dominated 2014 headlines – from enterovirus to Ebola to epidemic levels of influenza. Through it all, Children's provided the very best clinical care while sharing accurate health information locally and nationally. Our expertise was recognized when we were named as one of four hospitals – and the only pediatric hospital – in Minnesota to care for Ebola patients, if necessary. “The past year has been a busy one,” reflected Patsy Stinchfield, director of infection prevention and control at Children's. “I am proud of the ways our teams have worked together, always keeping our patients' well-being at the center of it all.”

ENT and plastic surgery care teams are alleviating conditions that could hinder kids

Specialized care for ears, noses and throats

When little ears, noses and throats need attention, you want care from experts who know them best. Children's Pediatric Ear, Nose, Throat (ENT) and Facial Plastic Surgery program is the only one in the Upper Midwest devoted exclusively to kids. In fact, some of the most current ENT practices that are used on young patients throughout the world were pioneered right here at Children's. By formulating care plans that use the latest advanced ENT and plastic surgery techniques and technology available, care teams can help alleviate conditions that could hinder kids today – setting them up for success tomorrow.

Nursing care at its best

Children's families are always quick to acknowledge the amazing care nurses provide during a hospital experience. Our team of more than 1,900 nurses give of themselves and their professional talents every day to make Children's a special place. We were proud to have 11 individuals recognized by Mpls/St. Paul Magazine during their Outstanding Nurses Awards in September 2014, including Be Thi Ho, a Minneapolis surgery department nurse who received this year's Lifetime Achievement award. Through their dedication to caring for kids, these honorees are a shining example of Children's nursing at its finest.

The “funnest” place in the hospital

By Grace Vokaty, Children’s patient

When I was seven years old, I came to Children’s – St. Paul because I had type 1 diabetes. When I was in the hospital, I was really sad because there isn’t a cure for my disease. But then I was invited to visit The Child Life Zone, which was made possible by Mr. Garth Brooks and his friends at Teammates for Kids. The Zone is so fun, and now whenever I see the doctor, I tell my parents that we have to stop and play.

I enjoy coloring and painting, air hockey, video games, the photo booth and lots of other stuff. I like that it is a fun place to go while I’m at the hospital. And when I’m not feeling happy, it cheers me up. Plus it’s nice to meet other kids like me who are patients, too. Even my parents enjoy it because I can play there while they are taking classes and learning how they can help me with my diabetes.

In November, I had the chance to meet Mr. Garth Brooks and to tell him thank you for building The Child Life Zone. I told him that it is the “funnest” place I have ever been and that he did a really great job. It makes me happy to know that people from all over care about kids at Children’s, and I hope that when other kids go there it makes them smile.

The Child Life Zone gives patients like Grace a place to enjoy being kids when they’re visiting or staying at the hospital.

A home away from home

Sleepless nights are all too common for families facing the hospitalization of a child. Fortunately, families at Children’s – St. Paul will soon be able to rest a little easier thanks to a new Ronald McDonald Family Room. Because of the generosity of individual supporters and community events like the Love Luncheon, over $1.9 million was raised to begin construction of the family room. This beautiful space will feature a kitchen, dining and living rooms, four sleeping rooms, and other comforting amenities, truly making it a home away from home.

Wrapped in care

As our longest serving volunteer groups, Children’s Association – Minneapolis and Children’s Hospital Association (CHA) in St. Paul know the difference wrap-around care makes for patients and their families at Children’s. This past year, these groups continued their generous support of important programs like pet therapy, chaplaincy, child life, Star Studio, music therapy and more. By supporting the social and emotional needs of kids in the midst of a health care experience today, the Associations are helping set the stage for truly amazing tomorrows.

Going the extra mile

“Oliver was a strong, brave boy who made an impact and impression on our lives,” recalls Kate Edenberg, “and we wanted to honor him as well as his family during our Twin Cities Marathon efforts.” To do so, Kate and her friends Rebekah Fawcett and Jason Adrians went the extra mile by running the 2014 marathon in Oliver’s honor. Together, they raised over $3,500 for Children’s home care child life program – a program that helped Oliver and his family during his journey with brain cancer. Thanks to the community’s generosity, important support services like child life are available to all Children’s families – both inside and outside our hospital walls.

Standing up for kids from the start

By Nancy J. Mendelsohn, Sr. Medical Director
Ambulatory Specialty Care, Clinical Genetics

As a member of the Children's clinical community, it is important to me to honor our organization's mission of championing the special health needs of children both inside and outside our walls. In 2014, I had the unique opportunity to be a voice for kids. Along with fellow colleagues, I advocated for legislation that would support restoring Minnesota's Newborn Screening Program, which tests babies for more than 50 hidden or rare disorders that may be detected by newborn screening and treated early.

In my work as a geneticist, I have witnessed the impact newborn screening can have in helping to identify disorders ranging from cystic fibrosis to sickle cell anemia. And for kids with extremely rare conditions that are otherwise difficult to diagnose, newborn screening is vital.

Through legislative testimony, communications and consultation with Children's Advocacy and Health Policy team, I am proud to have played a role in supporting passage of legislation that re-affirmed our state's position as a national leader in newborn screening. We all can be proud that this program has saved and improved the lives of thousands of children.

Our job – not only as medical professionals but as a community – is to do everything we can to protect children. When it comes to kids, I will always stand up on their behalf – in the clinic, in the community and at the capitol. I hope you will, too.

Dr. Nancy Mendelsohn is using her knowledge as a physician to advocate on behalf of children and their health.

Brain breaks for kids

In an effort to create a better learning environment at local schools, Children's has partnered with GoNoodle to provide three-minute “brain breaks” for kids. Using activities like yoga, dance, deep breathing and more, teachers can help students relax or re-energize, keeping them better engaged throughout the day. Through Children's support of these activities, we are helping schools recognize simple ways to promote kids' mental and physical health while teaching lifelong skills that lead to healthier tomorrows.

★ Helping schools support kids' mental and physical health

★ Ensuring all kids have a chance at a healthy, happy life

Joining together to support early development

Eighty percent of a child's brain growth occurs by age three. Knowing how critical a child's earliest years are in his or her development and lifelong health, Children's has initiated a campaign dedicated to shifting the conversation about early childhood development (ECD) to focus on ages 0-3. Following the release of a position paper called, “Foundation for Life: The Significance of Birth to Three,” Children's engaged in a number of awareness-building efforts, including a policymaker forum and a continuing medical education event. Our clinicians presented at conferences, participated in a Minnesota Public Radio panel discussion and joined advocacy efforts at the capitol to ensure that all kids have a chance at a healthy, happy life.

Closing the gap in health care

Children's is committed to addressing health inequity in our community, and we're beginning close to home. The Phillips neighborhood is home to our Minneapolis campus and a beautifully diverse community. Native American families in this neighborhood and around the state face some of the most notable health disparities. Last year, we launched a comprehensive initiative to listen to, learn about and take action on the barriers to health facing Native American families, both inside and outside our walls. Through ongoing relationship building and an intentional focus on empowering the community to design solutions, we are working with community partners and our own teams to confront health disparities head-on and create lasting solutions that support all families in raising healthier children.

Investing in excellence

Michael V. Ciresi and Theresa Pesch, RN

This past year at Children's was one of tremendous generosity! Through your support, we raised a record-setting $30.7 million. More than 15,000 donors rallied around a shared belief in the health and well-being of kids – from kids hosting lemonade stands or donating their birthday gifts to families and foundations committing to multi-year gifts. Thank you!

Excellence requires investment, and 2014 once again was a shining example of your commitment to continuing the care that has been the hallmark of Children's for the past 90 years. Because of you, we were able to expand our Midwest Fetal Care Center, open the new Child Life Zone at Children's – St. Paul and eliminate the wait list for Children's palliative care program, while also expanding the reach of this service across Minnesota.

As the largest pediatric health system in the region, we are seeing record-setting patient volumes. Philanthropy is more important than ever in providing the quality care and wrap-around services for each and every child in our system. We are grateful for your unwavering support in ensuring that all kids in the region receive the care they need when they need it.

We are looking forward to expanding our care and services in 2015. Because of your support, some of these initiatives are already in progress, such as the Ronald McDonald Family Room at our St. Paul campus, while others are still dreams to be realized. We hope that you'll continue this journey with us, dreaming together as we partner in caring for kids.

Radiating Generosity

In 2013, Children's Hospitals and Clinics of Minnesota received the distinction of being named to The Woodmark Group – a highly regarded professional organization whose members include 27 prominent children's hospitals in the United States and Canada. Members work collaboratively to lead the development of philanthropy to improve the health of children everywhere.

Children's Circle of Care program is part of a larger, North American Circle of Care program that honors philanthropists whose contributions ensure excellence in patient care, the education and training of staff, research for better outcomes and advocacy for children's health and well-being.

The minimum gift level for membership in Children's Circle of Care is a $10,000 outright gift or cumulative gifts totaling $10,000, given within the calendar year (January 1 through December 31). Gifts may be unrestricted or designated for any institutional program. Donors whose cumulative contributions have reached or exceeded $1 million since 1995 are part of the Royal Circle and are designated in the accompanying list.

Contributions may be made as follows:

- An outright gift or an irrevocable deferred gift with a present value not less than $10,000 (excludes pledges)
- A gift in the form of cash or assets readily convertible to cash (e.g., stocks, bonds, mutual funds, etc.)
- Paying at least $10,000 more than the fair market value for purchased goods or services, such as auction items

Certain gifts are not eligible for Circle of Care recognition, including in-kind contributions or matching gifts. As Children's Circle of Care is only open to individuals, couples and family foundations, gifts from estates, auxiliary or service organizations, public corporations, private foundations or corporate philanthropic foundations are not eligible.

Luminous & Lasting

Members of the Guardian Circle have ensured a legacy of outstanding pediatric care in our community by including Children's in their estate as a future gift or by establishing an endowed fund to further our mission today. With much gratitude, Children's recognizes the vision and generosity exemplified by our Guardian Circle donors.

You MAKE A DIFFERENCE

Your support of Children's has made a difference for kids like Liam, Anika and Ava Gabrielson. All are graduates of our neonatal program, and today, are thriving. Following Liam's rare diagnosis of congenital diaphragmatic hernia and Ava and Anika's early arrival at just 30 weeks gestation, the Gabrielson crew is now enjoying a happy, healthy childhood. And for parents Aimee and Mike, volunteering on behalf of Children's is a meaningful way to give back. Thank you for giving today to support tomorrows.

The Gabrielson family has plenty to smile about these days!
